Sir,

I have the honor to state that the Amildar of the Chellakere Taluk reported that a sum of Rs 50/- belonging to the temple of Sri Ranganathaswami at Belagere in the said Taluk was left with one Ranganna of the same village, who was managing the affairs of the institution. The temple is enjoying an Inam land and is therefore subject to the management of the Mugrai Department. Ranganna has admitted before the Shekdar of the Hobli and also before the Amildar that the amount is due from him. He took time to liquidate the amount more than once but failed to do so. He is now dead and his son is delaying the payment. Except his admission admission, there is no other Evidence to prove his indebtedness as no regular accounts were hitherto maintained The Amildar reports that he has made proper arrangements to maintain regular accounts and for the Efficient management of the affairs of the institution. For the present, however the Amildar solicits permission to attach and sell the property of the deceased and thereby recover the amount due from them. The Assistant Commissioner in Charge of the Taluka Expresses his doubt whether this sum can be recovered as a revenue demand under section 193 of the Mysore Land Revenue Code He further states that it is a clear case of criminal breach of trust by Ranganna but no prosecution can be instituted as the person is dead and that his son's liability cannot however cease. Instructions are solicited as to what steps should be taken to recover the amount of Rs 50/- said to be due from the deceased Ranganna
